Donoughmore Rectory,
Donard,
Co. Wicklow.

12th Nov. 1962

Mr. H. C. Burleigh M.D.
Bath
Ontario
Canada.

Dear Dr. Burleigh,

Thank you for your letter and postal note for one pound.

I am sorry that our records appear to be of little help to you. We have no baptism of a Percy from 1750 to 1756 or can find any record of a burial of a Percy in the 18th century or early 19th.

I enclose a copy of a few baptisms of persons named Percy or Pearcey from 1725 to 1831. in case the record might be of use to you.

The register of baptisms, marriages and burials for the parish of Donoughmore from 1720 - 1839 is really only a copy from the original and is imperfect. a number of years of burials are missing. Burials seem scanty for the years that you are interested in. a note at the beginning of this register of baptisms marriages and burials reads thus: -
"The greater part of the old parish Registry having been in leaves and decayed by age and some few of them short: We the Rector and churchwardens of the parish of Donoughmore employed Thomas Lambert the Vestry clerk to transcribe what was legible and remaining of the old book into this new one and paid him for his trouble. This book is imperfect as parts of the old one have been lost or broken: but we verieve that this new one contains nothing but what was in the old.

May 31st 1813.

If I discover any further information about the Percy family

I will let you know.

I could give you the marriage certificates of Elizabeth and Sarah daughters of Philip and Mary Percy. Sarah married John Giltrap, married on 31st July 1848 and Elizabeth married Patrick Phillips on 18th August 1850. These may not have been any connection of the family you are interested in.

If I can help you in any way do not hesitate to write & there will be no need to send any more money.

yours sincerely
A-H-V-Frazar.

P E R C Y

The required search has now been completed. An examination of records at this Office shows that we do not possess any body of material relating to the Percy family in Co. Wicklow. We have a registered pedigree of the Percys of Ballintemple in King's county, and also some unofficial pedigree of the same family. We have various other references to the name Percy and Piercy, which show that the name occurred mainly in Dublin, in King's County as above, in Co Leitrim, and in Co Cork. The Co. Leitrim family appear to be a junior branch of the Ballintemple Percys.

Three references - all in the first half of the 18th century - were found to Percy in Co Wicklow, thus establishing that there was a family there at this date. The three references appear to be linked, and indicate that the family were of some substance and property.

In the Index to Prerogative Wills there occurs only one reference to a Percy in Co Wicklow, that of Henry Percy of Seskin, Co Wicklow, whose will was proved in 1725. This will has been destroyed, but an abstract of it, made by Sir William Betham, reads,

Henry Percy of Seskin, Co Wicklow Esq, dated 10 December 1720, proved 12 July 1725 - son Emerson - wife Elizabeth Percy alias Percy - daughters Mary Warren, Elizabeth Montgomery, Anne, Harriett and Jane Percy - daughter Hannah Hoy alias Percy - brother Robert Percy - father William Paul - son Richard Warren.

In an index to obituaries from newspapers, the appears,

Robert Percy, of Snugborough, Co Wicklow. January, 1751.

What is obviously a reference to the same man occurs in the Index to Prerogative Administrations Intestate.

Robert Percy, Snugboro, Co Wicklow, Esq, 23 February 1750-1, to Elizabeth Shee, wife of Patrick Shee, the daughter.

The Index to townlands of Ireland shows that both Seskin and Snugborough in Co Wicklow are in the Barony of Upper Talbotstown and parish of Donaghmore. The two places being in the same parish, it seems possible that Robert of Snugborough is identical with Robert Percy, mentioned as brother by Henry of Seskin.

Since these are the only Percys so far found in Wicklow it would seem advisable to investigate them further. The parochial records are extant from 1720 for the parish of Donaghmore, and this is probably the most direct method of obtaining more information.
 They are in the custody of the rector, and no copies are available in Dublin, nor indeed are copies of any other Co Wicklow parochial records.

Of the 1766 Census only five Wicklow parishes are available, and these do not include Donaghmore. They were examined, but no Percys found therein.

An index to the tithe applotment books of Co Wicklow (c. 1825-35) shows no reference to Percy or Piercy in the county at this date: an index to Griffith's valuation (c. 1850) shows one reference.

Wicklow is in the Diocese of Glendalough, which Diocese is joined to that of Dublin, and for this reason the entries from the Dublin Grant Book have been included in the appendix to this report, even though they do not seem relevant.

It is possible that search at the Registry of Deeds might prove of assistance, but it is suggested that first investigation should be made of the Donaghmore registers.

It is hoped that this report will prove of interest and assistance.

Dear Miss, or Madam:

I am sorry for delay in replying to your letter of 27th ult. I suspect that I was waiting until I could think up something for you to do.

In your previous letter you did not note my indebtedness to you. At the same time you noted that you still had some work to do for me at St. Paul's Library. So, I assumed that you would bill me when that investigation was finished. As this has not been forthcoming, whatever it was, so I am enclosing postal note for £ L.H.O, as requested.

There is one small thing that you might do for me. I refer to the Waldman Papers, a collection of papers referring to what is now Canada during the American Revolution. Waldman was then military governor. In volume B-168 there are many lists of Colonial troops. One such list is headed Roll of His Majesty's King's Loyal Americans Commanded by Lieut.-Col. Ebenezer Jessup, with Casualties between 21 Aug. and 21 Oct., 1777.

Captain James Robins' Coy.

In this Company appeared the name John Dushby, taken prisoner 10 Oct., 1777. If possible, and if you can find it, please look this name over in the original to see if it might be Burley.

A number of years ago I read a book on the House of Percy. In it was a discussion of the claim to the earldom by a James Percy, of Dublin. At that time I made copious notes from it. I now wonder if there has been anything published on the claim since then? If so, or if you have anything on Irish Percies, please let me know. It is possible that reference to it may have appeared in Notes & Queries, or in The Genealogist.

I am still unsuccessful in helping my friend out regarding the Stewart affair. He has been doing some research on it in Scotland, I believe, without too much success. At the moment the matter is somewhat in abeyance, but there may yet be work in this regard for you. On matter comes up, in which you might advise. As I have indicated, Stewart's sister died from a severe beating at her brother's hands. This occurred between 1745 and 1753, possibly in the neighborhood of Aberdeen, although that is only an assumption. Now, and there, would one search for a report on the matter?

I believe that I have come to the end of my queries.

Please forgive delay.

Yours sincerely,

Dear sirs:

I have before me your 'Scale of Fees' which has been passed to me by a friend. Item of this Scale, No. 12, outlines a cost of three pounds for search limited to 6 hours in Genealogical Office. I am, therefore, enclosing postal note for ten dollars to cover search, as follows:

John Percy (Hickey), listed in military records of this country to have been born in 1752-3 in Ireland. His gravestone stated that he was born in County Wicklow, Ireland, and of Protestant faith.

If available, will you check parish and civil registers of that county, as well as any other available material, with respect to the family of this name as may be discovered anywhere in Ireland.

Should it be found that the enclosed fee is not sufficient, or that further search is necessary, I shall be glad to comply with further funds.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Sir,

With reference to your letter of the 11th ultimo enclosing a remittance of five shillings for which a receipt has already been forwarded to you I must send herewith for your information a copy of the Scale of Fees at present in force. You will note that this Scale does not have the item relating to the copying of documents. This former item did not in fact cover the cost of searches, and in your present enquiry it would appear that the searches necessary might well be extensive. If you would be good enough to complete the enclosed Form B as far as may be readily possible we should be in a better position to advise you as to the best approach to your enquiry and we shall be glad to do so.

Dear sirs:

I have been informed that you have microfilms of ALL the parishes of Ireland, and that you are prepared to search these at the rate of ten ($10.00) dollars per six hours.

If the above be true, and if this applies to parishes, both Roman Catholic and Protestant, will you please so advise me, in order that I may ask you to undertake search for me in the Protestant Church parishes of co. Wicklow?

Yours sincerely,

Canada.

4 November, 1962.

Rev. A. E. V. Frazer,
Rector,
Parish of Donaghmore,
Donard, Ireland.

Reverend sir:

In recent months the Irish College of Heraldry has undertaken a search for me regarding the Percy family in Ireland. As this has been only partially successful, the College has suggested that I approach you regarding a review of the parish records of Donaghmore.

I am, therefore, requesting that you assist me in this matter. I am also enclosing postal note for one pound as a retainer. Additional funds will be forwarded as required.

My problem has to do with a great-great-grandfather, John Percy (Piercy, Piersey, Pearcy), who was stated to have been born in County Wicklow. In 1781 he made the statement that he was 28 years of age. This would indicate that he was born between 1750 and 1756. He settled in this Province (Ontario) in 1784, and appears to have returned to Ireland temporarily in 1794 or 5, possibly because of a death in the family in Ireland.

As a Percy family was established in your parish in the eighteenth century, would you please review the baptisms of all persons named Percy from 1750 to 1756, as well as all burials of persons of this name from 1785 to 1796?

Your assistance in this matter will be greatly appreciated.

Yours sincerely,

H. C. Darleigh.

April 1, 1961

Dear Dr. B.,

Your letter arrived this morning and I felt I must reply before it gets "filed away". By all means keep the Nettle epic: I intended it to be a final edition, but am now dissatisfied with it and shall re-write it so as to include more information and references. In this matter, you could be of great assistance if you could find the time to prepare a genealogical table showing all known descendents of Frank & Lydia Norton, down to your youngest grandchild, complete with dates & places of birth, death, marriage and, where available, latest address of any now living, particularly those # in San Francisco. This is fairly difficult, I realize, but it would lend completeness to the affair.

You may be interested in the following item:

From- "On Early Patents for Inventions Granted to Residents of Ottawa" by W.J.Lynch, Women's Canadian Historical Society
Of Ottawa, Trans. Vol. VIII, 1922, p.94-107.
: (Page 107)

Patent No. 1469-- F.L.NORTON, Ottawa, Ont., "Machine for Tightening the Tires of Wheels."
27th May, 1872.

And that just about exhausts my discoveries in the Nettle-Norton field in the past year.

Your plan to search ship passenger lists seems interesting, but- as you say- may only yield incidental details. If you have found a satisfactory searcher in London, I would not be sorry to hear her address. Such people, I think, are rare. Incidentally, the Irish College of Heralds has every Irish Parish ~~register~~ register on microfilm, and will search these for $10 for 6 hours. They are in Dublin Castle, Dublin.

I have lost faith in Irish genealogists. One has published a pedigree gained from "indisputable sources" ~~as~~ of the Kirwan family which is uninterrupted in male line right back to Adam. No kidding. The Bristows go back, on more believable evidence, to Rollo, first Duke of Normandy (914), and through Rollo's wife, to Charlemagne, so the writing of this family history should be fun.

I have recently taken an interest in local history, and am thinking of compiling a pictorial history of Ottawa (no text, only photographs and drawings). I already have several hundred pictures and access to thousands more. The idea intrigues me.

I would be most interested in seeing your own family history, particularly that of the Percy family. Perhaps I can run down to Bath some Sunday before going up North? Besides, conversation is much more rewarding than letters. Can you tell me if any Percys married any of the French Kings from Charlemagne down to Lewis the Simple, or any of Charlemagne's ancestors back to # Pepin of Landen? or any Boteler or Marmion ???

All the best to yourself and family-

John

Bath, Ont., 6 April, 1961.

Dear John:

Pleased to receive your recent letter, and to know that you had forgiven my long silence. Also pleased to know that you were still busy in your mind, about family lines.

I am enclosing a sketch of the Percy Family. But that does not mean that we do not want you to come along some Sunday to look over things. We shall be pleased to have you, as well as your mother and Ruth. Just give us some indication of the date, so we will be at home.

As you will note, I have not followed all female lines in the Percy story. In this regard, I came across, years ago, a most interesting book on extinct and dormant peerages. It gave much detail which would otherwise not be known about very early families. If you have not seen it, perhaps your local library would have it. But, perhaps you have already seen it.

Thank you for the interesting note on F. L. Norton's invention. He seems to have had some good points. But he still remains my 'man of mystery.'

I am inclined to write to the Irish College of Heraldry and have them do a search of the parishes of Wicklow for my John Percy. It is the only lead yet uncovered, except possibly passenger lists to U. S. about 1770-5. These are very elusive, and I have never traced any down successfully. A friend of mine found several having to do with ships from the southwest of Scotland. They must be somewhere. Incidentally, I do not expect much from my queries re passenger lists. However, I am hoping that we may be able to locate the port of entry for Eaststaff. I have a suspicion that it was Halifax, and not St. John's, Nfld. It, too, may give age, birthplace and parentage. Let's hope so. That reliable woman in London is Miss E. M. Bryant, 7 Dalebury Road, London S.W. 17, England. Tell her that I recommended her to you.

To be truthful, I too look with scepticism on those wild people who trace descent beyond the Battle of Hastings, except in very well-known families. However, one must admit that the Irish bards gave a very interesting account of the descent of certain families, all, of course, without documentary proof, and only by word of mouth from one generation to another.

While I am in memory, the Howards also have a long pedigree. In fact, they spring, in the female line, from Adeliza, the Fair Maid of Brebant, widow of Henry I of England, and her second husband, William de Albini. Adeliza was a half-sister of Josceline de Louvain who married the Percy heiress. Therefore, Adeliza and Josceline have the same line back to Charlemagne.

Your idea of a pictorial history of Ottawa is most fascinating, and should prove very rewarding. Play around with it and see what can be done. It should be a sensation. Do not let it drop without going into it further.

I am waiting day by day for some further results of Miss Bryant's work. If she comes on anything I shall let you know immediately. Be sure that I have your northern address, if mail will reach you.

There is an interesting bit of information on the Marmions in 'Norman People,' I saw a copy in Albany years ago. It claims that the Percies, Byrons and Marmions were branches of the Tesson family. Each of these families had the same coat of arms--the fesse--distinguished in each family by the difference in tincture. You should look it up, if possible.

Let's hear from you.

1. Mainfred, "who came out of Denmark into Normandy before the advent of Duke Rollo."
2. Geoffrey, associate of Rollo; baptized at Artois, A. D. 912.
3. William, Sieur de Perci, a manor near Villedieu (Department of La Manche, Arrondissement of Saint Lo), in Normandy; slain by Hugh Capet. Also Comte de Caux.
4. Geoffrey II, Comte de Caux, Sieur de Perci, etc.
5. William II, Comte de Caux et de Poitiers, Sieur de Perci, etc.
6. Geoffrey III, Comte de Caux et de Poitiers, Sieur de Perci, etc.; reputed father of William de Perci, who settled in the north of England.
7. William de Perci, 1030(?) - 1096, 1st Baron Percy, surnamed Algernon (als gernons-- with the moustaches). From a family which traced its descent to Mainfred, a Danish chief who settled in Normandy before the time of Rollo. Chief seat of the family was at Perci, near Villedieu. His name appears as one of the Barons accompanying William I in 1066.
Married Emma de Port, Lady of Semer near Scarborough, a Saxon lady.
William settled in Yorkshire in 1067, and died in sight of Jerusalem, 1096.
8. Alan de Percy, 2nd Baron Percy, styled "Magnus Alanus." Born about 1067; died 1120.
Married Emma, daughter of Gilbert de Gaunt, Baron of Folkingham, granddaughter of Baldwin, Count of Flanders, brother of Matilda, consort of William the Conqueror.
9. William de Percy, 3rd Baron Percy; died in 1133.
Married, Alice, daughter of Everard, Baron de Ros.
10. William de Percy, 4th Baron Percy, 1112-1163 (last of the direct male line).
Married Adeliza de Tunbrigg, daughter of Richard, 3rd Earl de Clare.
11. Agnes de Percy, Baroness de Percy, coheiress and eventually heiress of her father; 1134-1205.
Married Josceline de Louvain, who assumed the name of Percy; died before 1189. He was a younger son of Godfred, Duke of Lower Lorraine, and grandson of Adela, of Thuringia. He was a descendant of Louis IV, of France and his wife, Princess Gerberga de Saxa, daughter of Henry the Fowler, Emperor of Germany. Louis IV was son of Princess Edgiva, granddaughter of Alfred the Great, of England, as well as third great grandson of Charlemagne, Emperor of the West.
12. Sir Henry Percy, Knt., died before his father, and falsely called 5th Baron. He died in 1196.
He married Isabel, daughter of Alan de Brus, Lord of Skelton.
13. William de Percy, 6th Baron Percy, 1193-1245.
He married Eleanor, daughter of Ingelram de Baliol.
14. Henry Percy, 7th Baron Percy; taken prisoner at Lewes. 1228-1272.
Married in 1268 Eleanor Plantaganet, first daughter of John, Earl of Surrey, Sussex and Warrenne, by Lady Alice, half-sister of Henry III, of England.

15. Henry, 8th Baron Percy, 1st Lord Percy of Alnwick (by summons); fought at Bannockburn, 1272-1315.
Married Eleanor Fitz-Alan, daughter of John, Earl of Arundel; died 1328.
He lies buried at Fountains Abbey, before the high altar.
16. Henry, 9th Baron de Percy, 2nd Lord Percy of Alnwick, K. B., commanded at the victory of Neville's Cross, 1346; 1299 ?-1353.
Married Idonea, daughter of Robert, Lord Clifford of Appleby, who died in 1365.
17. Henry, 10th Baron de Percy, 3rd Lord Percy of Alnwick; styled "Parvius Miles." 1320-1368.
Married Mary Plantagenet, daughter of Henry, Earl of Lancaster, and granddaughter of King Henry III.
18. Henry, 11th Baron de Percy, 4th Lord Percy of Alnwick; created 1st Earl of Northumberland, July 16, 1377; Lord High Constable of England, &c., 1342; attainted in 1405. Slain at Bramham Moor March 2, 1407.
Married Margaret, daughter of Ralph, 4th Lord Nevill of Raby, widow of Lord Ros of Hamlake; died 1372.
19. Sir Harry Percy, K. G., styled "Hotspur," Warden of the Marches, &c., the most renowned knight of his day. Born 1366, slain vita patris at Shrewsbury Field July 2, 1403.
Married Elizabeth, daughter of Edward Mortimer, 4th Earl of March, and granddaughter of Lionel Plantagenet, Duke of Clarence.
20. Henry Percy, only son; restored to the forfeited Earldom of Northumberland, the baronies and estates (2 Henry V). Again created Earl of Northumberland (3 Henry VI); Lord High Constable of England; Lord Warden of the Marches; born 1394; slain at St. Albans, 1455.
Married in 1414 Lady Eleanor Nevil, daughter of Ralph, 1st Earl of Westmoreland and of Joan de Beaufort, daughter of John of Gaunt, fourth son of Edward III, King of England. Eleanor was Henry Percy's cousin.
21. Henry Percy, 3rd Earl of Northumberland (summoned to Parliament in right of his wife as Baron Poynings, Fitz-Payne and Bryan, 1446). Slain at Towton Field, and attainted after death, 1461.
Married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard, son and heir of Robert, Baron Poynings and Fitz-Payne (by Elizabeth, Baroness Bryan); died 1472.
22. Sir Henry, K. G., only son, restored as 4th Earl of Northumberland, etc., in 1473; Lord High Chamberlain. Murdered at Cock Lodge, 1489.
Married Maud, daughter of William, 1st Earl of Pembroke.
23. Josceline, of Newlands, fourth son. Will proved, 1532.
Married Margaret, daughter and co-heiress of Walter Frost of Fetherstone, Co. York.
24. Edward Percy, of Beverly, co. York, Esq., 1524-1595.
Married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Waterton, Knt., of Walton, Yorks. His four children are claimed to have been transported from the north of England to Harrowden, in Northamptonshire, about 1559, during the troublous years of the early part of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. (See James Percy's claim to the Earldom of Northumberland). Of these children, the eldest,

25. Henry Percy, of Pavenham, Bury, Bedfordshire, born about 1555.

Married Jane Tibbott.

In the History of the Hundred of Willey (Bedfordshire) Mr. Wm. Marsh Harvey gives the following extracts from the Pavenham Registers:

James Pearcey, fil. Henrici Pearcey bapt. 12 Feb., 1581.

Willm Pearcey fil. Henrici Pearcey bapt. 15 Dec., 1583.

Maria Pearcey fillia Henrici Pearcey bapt. 27 Sept., 1590.

Alicia Pearcey filia Henrici Pearcey bapt. 18 Jan., 1593.

26. Henry Percy, of Pavenham, Bury, Bedfordshire, of the household of Lord Bacon.

Married Lydia Cope.

27. James Percy, of Dublin, claimant to the Earldom and estates of Northumberland.

Born 1619; died in Dublin in the Spring of 1654; citizen and trunkmaker.

Married Sarah, daughter of ~~James Sayer~~ John Sayer, of Norwich, of the family of Sayer of Pulham St. Mary.

According to various histories of the Percy Family, he was not certain of his descent. He claimed that his grandfather, Henry Percy, acknowledged to be Henry Percy of "Pavenham" and Bedfordshire, was descended from

1. Sir Richard Percy, fifth son of Henry, 8th Earl, who died at Angers, France, in 1643, aged 73.

or

2. Sir Ingelgram Percy, younger brother of Henry, 6th Earl.

Both claims were lost and he was publicly degraded.

In the "House of Percy," page 333, is the following:

In the light of subsequent researches it appears most likely that "Edward Percy" stood for Edward Percy, born about the same time as Guiscard, and son of Josceline Percy, of Newlands, fourth son of the fourth Earl.

The manor house of Nessfield was a seat of the Percys. Sir William Percy was granted a license to have a chapel in his manor house of Nessfield, on condition of supplying the altar of Ilkley Church with a pound of frankincense yearly. In 1322 Sir William settled the manor of Nessfield on his son William. Sir Robert, son of the second Sir William, was a distinguished naval officer, constantly engaged in the French and Scottish wars. So we find that the old sea blood that had come in with the Vikings had not corrupted under five centuries of inland residence; five more centuries have passed since then, and it is as pure, as vigorous and as venturesome as when the audacious Knut bade the flowing tide to obey his will.

Beverly Minster
East York

Percy 1

Near the altar-screen, on the north, is the famous Percy Tomb, which is well known to all students of architecture. It is very beautiful Decorated work, and is generally considered to have no equal. It was erected in 1338, and is to the memory of Lady Eleanor Percy, wife of the first Lord Percy. The carving is quite superb, the details of the figure-sculpture being worthy of the closest attention. In the gable is a figure of the Almighty receiving the soul of the deceased, who is represented as being held up by a sheet supported by two angels. The east transept and retro-choir—etc.

The night (at Beverly) is pervaded by a little wandering wind, which carries on its wings the sweetness of lilacs and of may from some old town garden, and stirs the blood with suggestions of warm summer. On such a night Beverly is of no age, or rather of all ages; and I look round among the heavy shadows of the houses half expecting to see a band of those north country minstrels who used to meet at Beverly out of all the country between Trent and Tweed on the Rogation days, making night melodious with their rebecks. But they are gone long since from Beverly, gone even from the memories of most who dwell there; and out of all the many-coloured pageants of the past, — knights, chanting pilgrims, or minstrels with their sweet-tuned instruments, no one has left more traces of itself than remains on the smooth surface of a pond, when the rings have died away which a fish made in leaping, save only the belief that every night Sir Jocelyn Percy drives a team of headless horses through the ancient town, stopping always at a certain house where he wrought some foul and shameful deed. Is it not by this way that he comes? I would not meet him.

p. 296

I know some other reasons for seeking out Markenfield; as it will be time well spent to diverge from the direct road to Ripon, crossing one or two fields and penetrating a small wood, till we reach the old grey hall lost in the middle of the meadows. In this courtyard the levantine must have been mustered for the march to Flodden, where Sir Ninian Markenfield held a command; and here, too, three generations later, there were gatherings on a cause perhaps as gallant, but by far less glorious. For Thomas Markenfield, grandson of the old warrior just named, was one of those north-country gentlemen who, in the days when English Catholics had hopes of setting Mary Stuart on the throne, and were busy seeking aid from Alva and his Spanish fikes, met ^{at} the Percies' house of Maiden Bower in Topcliffe, not ten miles away to the east of Ripon, and there sat waiting for news that the men of the East Country were up, with the Duke of Norfolk at their head. But the Duke was taken, and the eastern counties did not rise; and the gallant company of gentlemen at Topcliffe would have done well to ride back to their homes again. But rarely did a Percy or a Neville hold his hand from a rebellion; and many another gentleman who sat beside them on that October night at Topcliffe was sick at heart with disappointed hope that he might live to hear mass sung again in Ripon Minster, and to see the monks march back again to empty Fountains in a long procession

As I turn away and regain the rough lane which leads me towards Ripon, I can see beyond the ridge where the Minster lies in morning shadow a mass of woods which catch the sunlight. There, as thereabouts, lies the house of Norton Conyers, home of that old Richard Norton, who was so fierce a fellow-rebel with Markenfield and Swynborne. It is a noble house, and I would fain ride out there where the memories of the Rebellion lie so thick, and thence to Topcliffe, that ancient village of the Percies, where so many plots were hatched. But "Maiden Bower," that great mansion of the noblest and most tragic Yorkshire house is nothing but a grassy mound, and Topcliffe is only a wide, silent village, sleeping on the memory of its stormy days. There are men yet in the village who will point out with a certain awe the lineal descendant of him who led a mob against the house of Maiden Bower four centuries ago, and slew with his own hand Henry, Fourth Earl Percy — so long does the memory of tragedies linger in country places in the North.

In the light of subsequent researches it appears most likely that "----ard Percy" stood for Edward Percy, born about the same time as Guiscard, and son of Josceline Percy of Newlands, fourth son of the fourth Earl.

In this History of Hundred of Willey (Bedfordshire) Mr. Wm. Marsh Harvey gives the following extracts from the Pavenham Registers.-- page 367.

His (James Percy) case can hardly be said to be satisfactorily disposed of, so long as his true descent remains unascertained.

CRAIK'S ROMANCE OF THE PEERAGE.

His (James Percy) eldest son, Sir Anthony Percy became Lord Mayor of Dublin in 1699 and was knighted at the close of his term of office. A grandson, Henry Percy of Seskin, co Wicklow, at one time published a pamphlet, now very rare, in which he reviewed and renewed James Percy's claim to the Earldom. This branch is now supposed to be extinct in the male line. But the claimant's two younger sons also left descendants. One of them John Percy of Ballintemple, Kings co. was granted by Sir William Beltham, Ulster King of Arms, the following armorial bearings in evident recognition of Percy's claimed descent from the House of Northumberland:-

Quarterly 1st & 4th or a lion rampant az. between 3 trefoils slipped vert; 2nd & 3rd azure 5 fusils in fesse or between 2 trefoils slipped argent; all within a border gobony gules & argent.

From this John Percy claim descent George Percy of Ballylonan near Frankford, Kings co., and John Percy of Clononeen, Borris-in-Ossory, Queen's co. either of whom may be the male representative of old James Percy the "Trunkmaker" and his claims. A Henry Percy also resides at Larkfield near Athlone, and claims to be a descendant of James Percy.

HERALDRY OF WORCESTERSHIRE.

PERCY or PIERCY of Worcester.

This family, of which the celebrated Dr. Thomas Percy, Bishop of Dromore, was the last male heir (there is, however, a family still existing in the county named Piercy. Of this family was the Rev. Daniel Piercy, rector of Shrawley, 1764, who used for arms the Percy lion, quartering gules, three lucies haurient argent for Lucy as borne by the Earls & Dukes of Northumberland) is stated to have descended from John Percy, "who retired from the north to Worcester about 1520 and brought with him his son, Thomas, then an infant." This John was supposed by the Bishop of Dromore "from the concurrence of many peculiar circumstances" to have been identical with John Percy of Newton-by-the-Sea, son of Henry Percy, and grandson of Sir Ralph Percy, a younger brother of Henry, 3rd Earl of Northumberland. Dr. Percy printed a sheet pedigree of his family about the year 1795, in which he inserted that descent which he had previously suggested to Nash; but such descent, though probable, is certainly "not proven". From Thomas, the supposed son of John Percy of Newton, Thomas Piercy, mayor of Worcester in 1662, was lineally descended. John, the mayor's son married Elizabeth, dau. of Arthur Lowe, of the Lowe and was the father of Arthur Percy, who removed to Bridgnorth, and had issue, Arthur Lowe Percy or Percy, a grocer of the Cartway, who, by Jane Nott, his wife, was father of Thomas Percy born 1729, Bishop of Dromore. Dr. Percy married in 1759 Anne Gutteridge (to whom he had addressed the pastoral ballad, "O Nancy, wilt thou go with me?"), but died without surviving male issue on 30th Sept., 1811," revered (says one of his biographers) by all sects and classes in his diocese, to whom the exercise of every virtue--charity, piety and hospitality-- had endeared him during an episcopate of nearly thirty years---

Or, a lion rampant azure. (Nash, etc.)

Under "Piercie of Worcester", Penn states---"This family do take their derivation from the noble Earls of Northumberland, as witness the coat; for they beare, Or, a lyon rampant azure, which is the same, but their difference is a mullet on a crescent surmounted by another crescent which is a great distance from the first house".

PERCY

Early genealogy is not authentic.

Percy after 1026 became the property of a branch of the Tessons, the greatest baronial house in Normandy, and so continued in the reign of Richard I (Stapleton Mag. Rot. Scoc. Norm. 1 LXXXIII, 2 XIII.). Ralph Tesson was of Anjou in the 10th century. Ralph Taxo, his son, witnessed with Fulco, Count of Anjou, a charter of King Robert, 1028 (Gall. Christ. VIII 297 Instr.). He or his father acquired a barony in Normandy, perhaps by marriage and founded the abbey of Fontenay (Gall. Christ. XI 413); and in 1047, Ralph Tesson of Cinquelaïs led 120 knights of his dependence to aid Duke William at the battle of Val des Dunes (De Greville, Ave. Chateaux). The Tesson barony 1165 consisted of 60 knights fees (Feod. Norm. Duchenne).

From this House descended the Marmions, of whom William Marmilon of Fontenay (a Tesson estate) witnessed a charter of Ralph Tesson, probably his brother, in 1070 (Gall. Christ. XI 413). The Byrons seem to have been another branch. The Percys probably derive from Ernégis or Erneis Tesson, brother of Ralph and co-founder of Fontenay 1050 (Gall. Christ. XI 413). He had William, Serlo and Ralph de Percy who came to England in 1066 and from whom the English Percys descended. The arms of these families show their ~~origin~~ common origin. The Tessons bore a fesse, the Marmions the same, the Percys a fesse indented, the Percys of the South fessy or barry and the Byrons bendy for fessy. The distinction is chiefly made by tinctures.

"News of the World"
1924-26.

The "Lord Piercy" who met with a fatal motoring accident in Sardinia was Mr. Gerald Piercy, a member of the family of Marchiviel Hall, near Wrexham (Denbigh co.), who own much property in Sardinia.

He was son of Mr. B. H. Piercy and a nephew of Lady Buchanan Jardine and of Mrs. James Bell-Irving, of Makerstown, Roxburghshire.

The Percys are all very keen about sport, and one of them kept a pack of hounds on the family estate in Sardinia.

JAMES PERCY.

"The Trunkmaker" claimant to the Duchy of Northumberland.

Annals of the House of Percy (1887)-- E. B. De Fonblanque.

History of the House of Percy (1902)-- W. O. Lindsay.

James Percy, 1619-1690? Born at Harrowden, Northamptonshire, only son of Henry Percy by Lydia, daughter of Robert Cope of Horton, Northamptonshire.

His grandfather admitted to be Henry Percy of "Pavenham" and Bedfordshire. Previously had been a trunkmaker in Dublin.

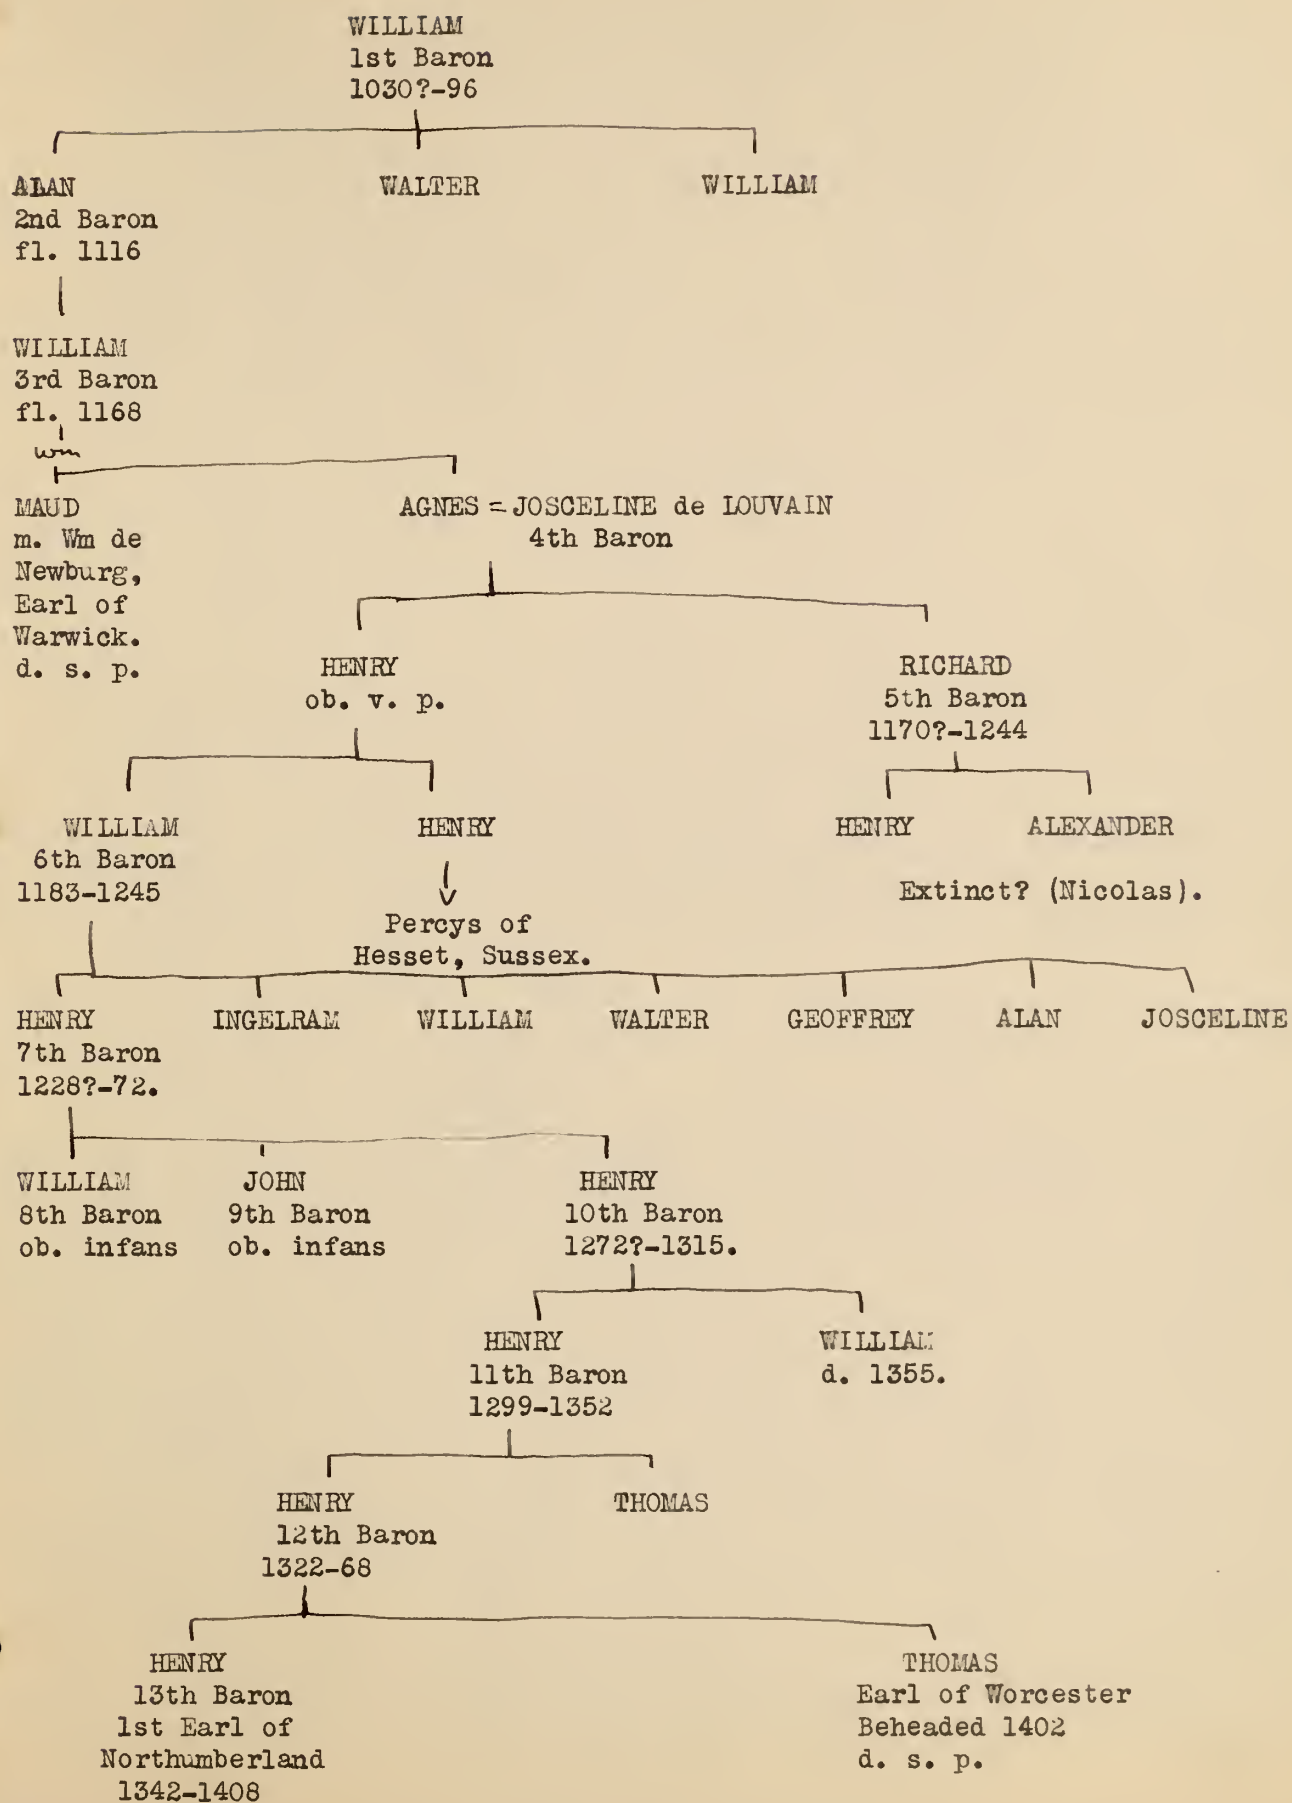

He claimed that his grandfather Henry Percy was descended from--

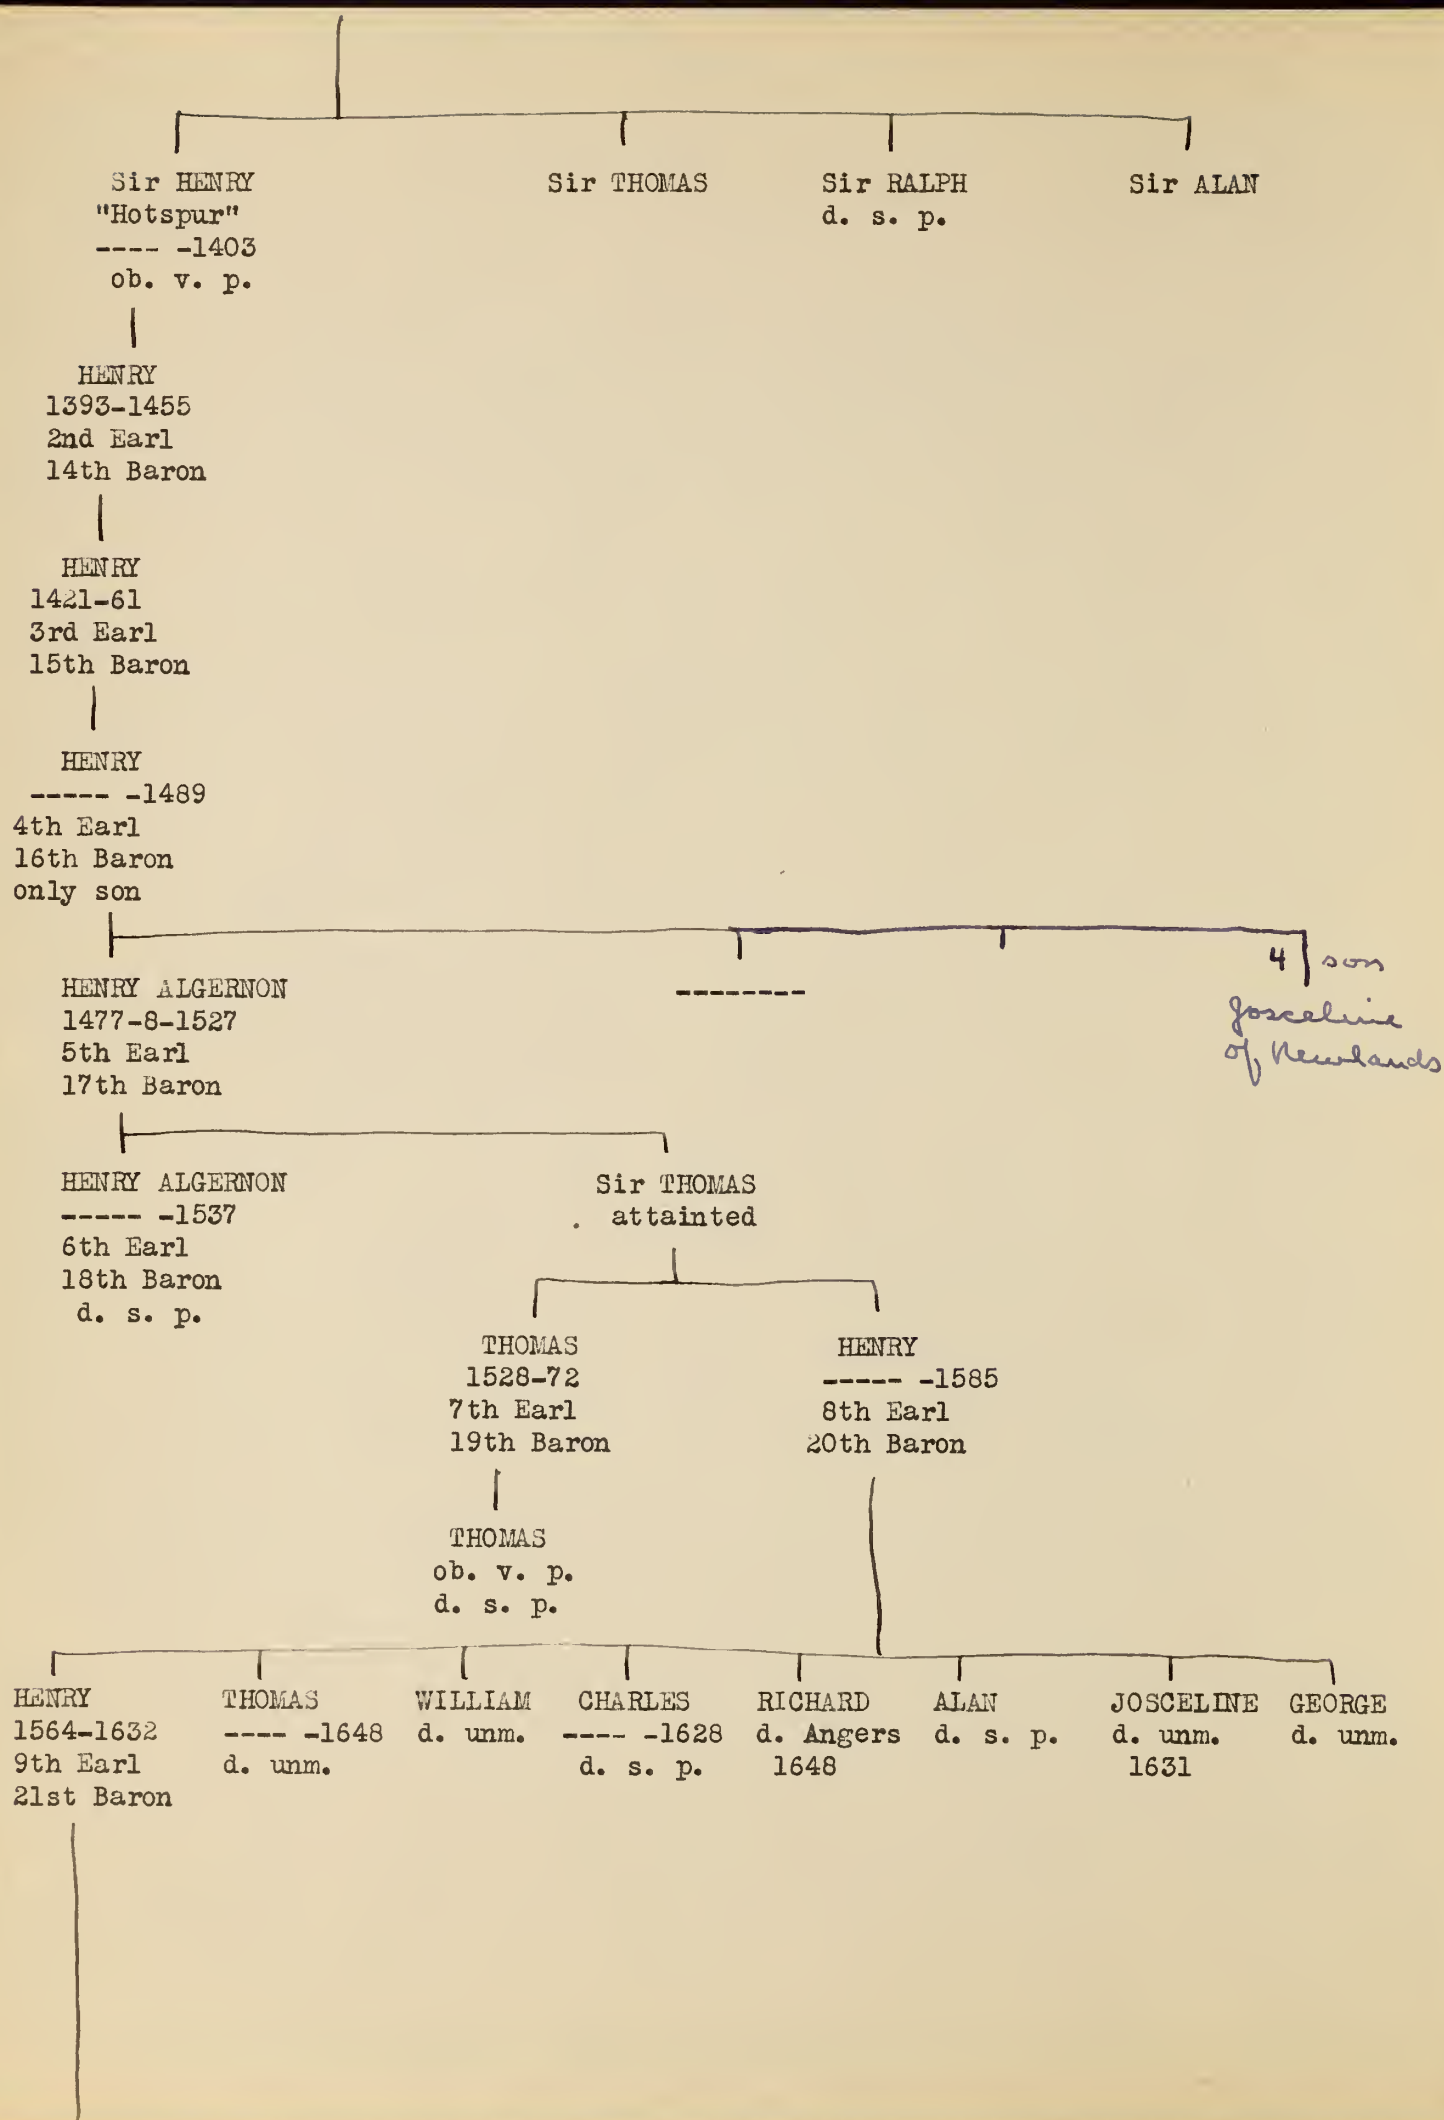

1. Sir Richard Percy, fifth son of Henry, 8th Earl, who died at Angers in 1648, aged 73.
2. Sir Ingelgram Percy, younger brother of Henry Algernon, 6th Earl.

Both claims were lost & he was publicly degraded.

His second son, Anthony was a merchant in Dublin & was Lord Mayor of Dublin in 1689.

American Genealogist, vol 34, No 1.

State Library, Albany, N. Y. May, 1964.

This family were originally the hereditary Advocates of St. Pierre de Gand and were made Seigneurs d'Alost by the Counts of Flanders.

In 962 Baudouin was the Advocate of St. Pierre.

In 994-5 Raoul was Advocate.

Both the office and the names would make it appear that they were father and son, and that Raoul was undoubtedly father of Raoul de Gand, Advocate of St. Pierre and Seigneur d'Alost, who occurs in 1034.

According to a very doubtful epitaph, Raoul II married Gisèle, sister of Ogive, wife of Count Baudouin IV of Flanders, and daughter of Frederick, Count of Luxembourg.

Henceforth the Advocates of St. Pierre are styled Seigneurs d'Alost.

Raoul II appears in 1052. His eldest son,

Baudouin was Seigneur d'Alost and first mentioned in 1065

Raoul, younger son, was the Chamberlain.

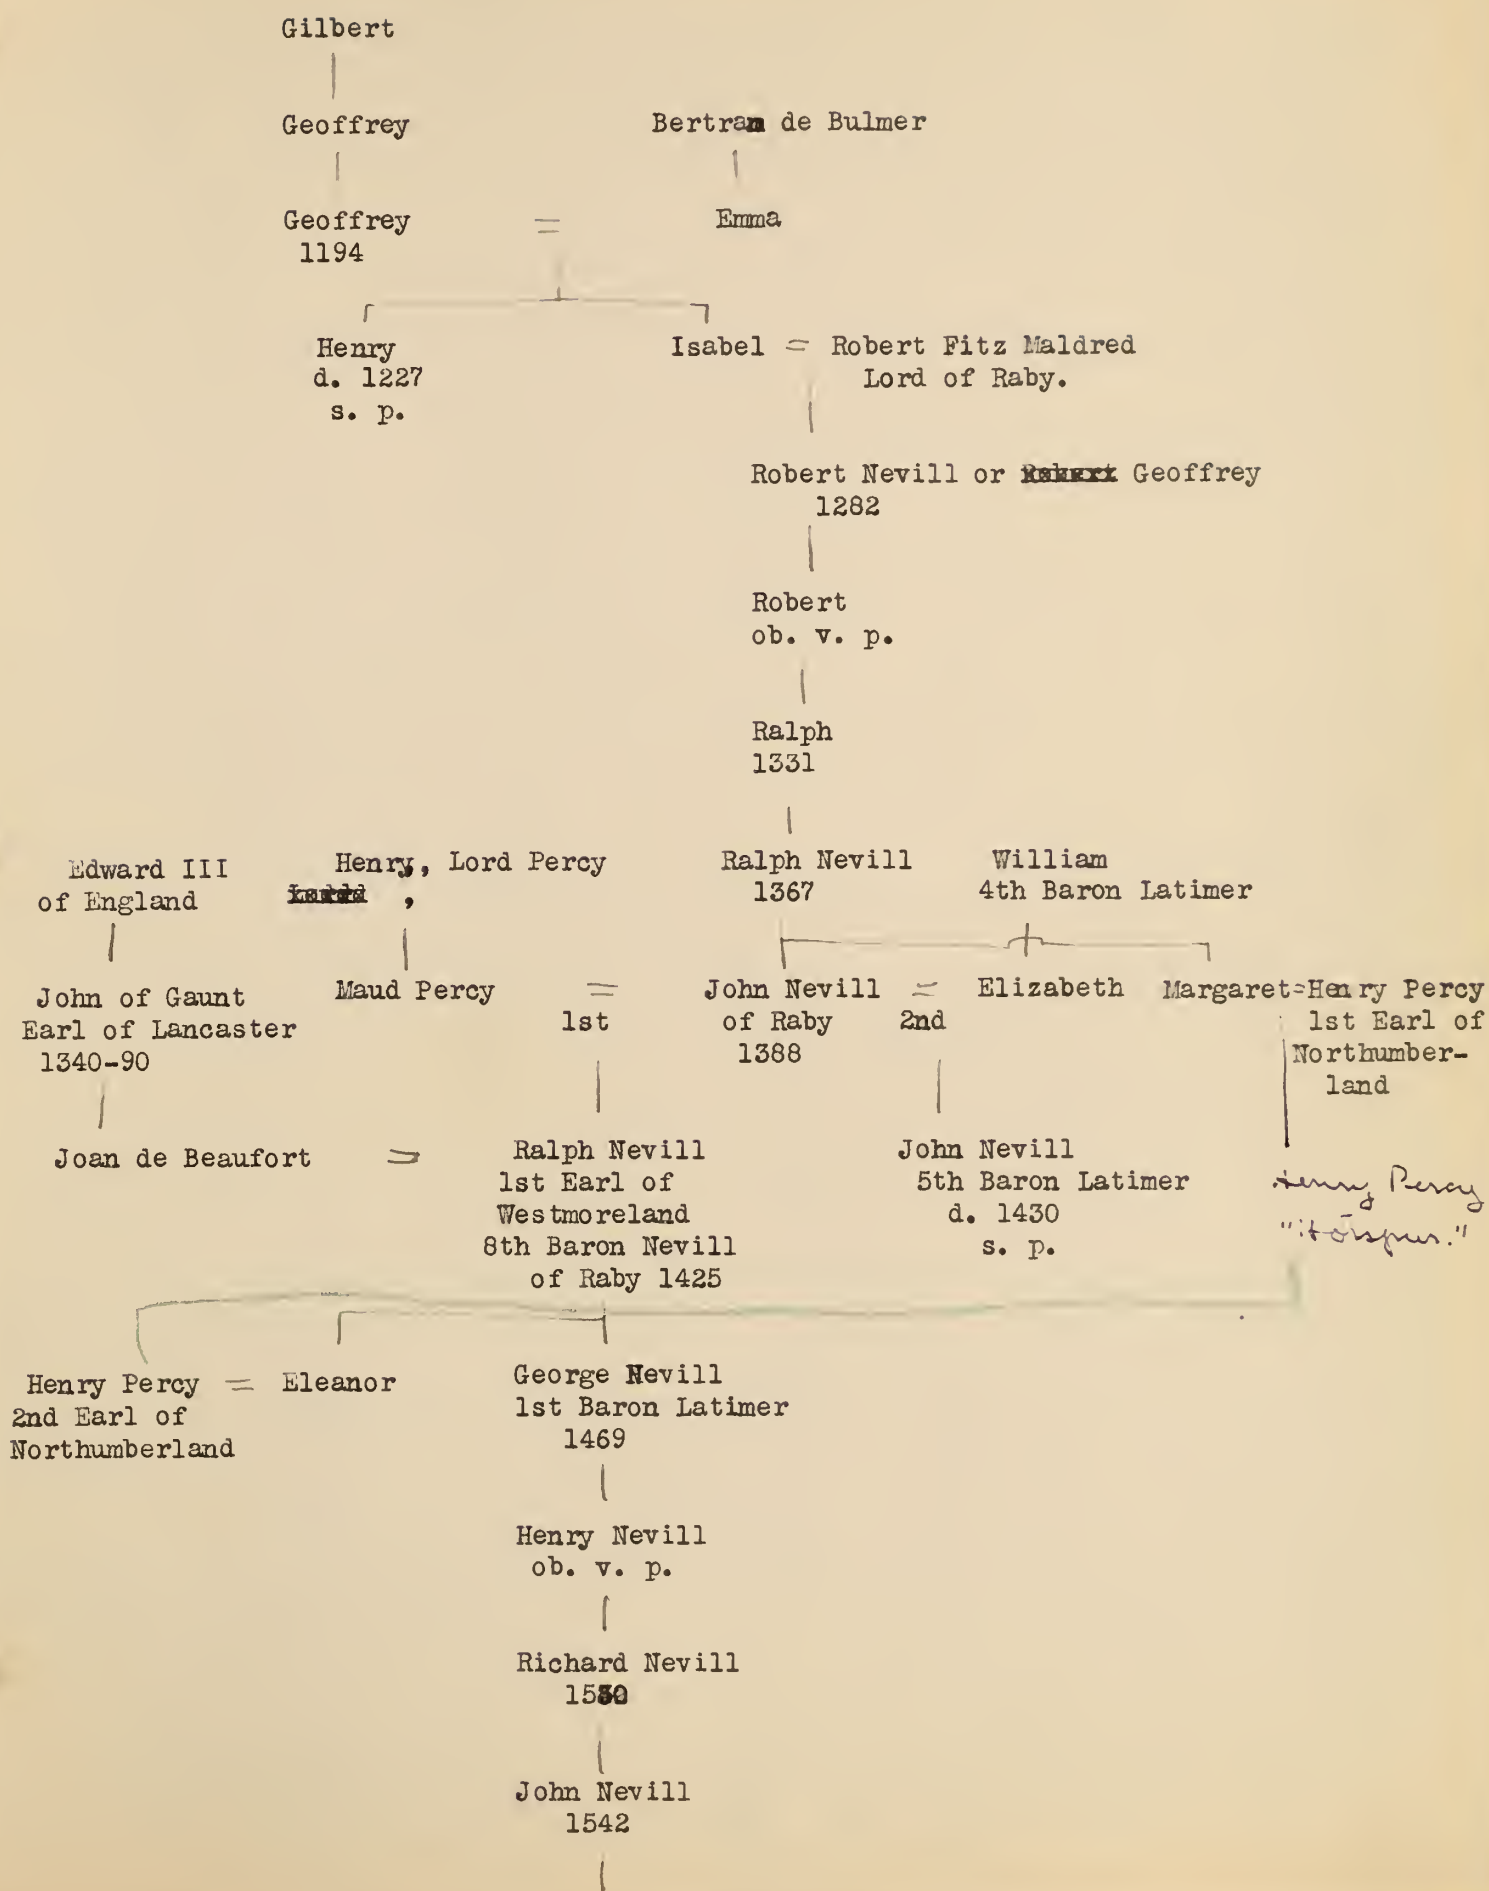

Gilbert, 3rd son.

Raoul II died between 1052 and 1065, and undoubtedly before 1056, in which Gisèle, evidently a widow, made a gift to St. Pierre de Gand, and names sons Baudouin, Raoul and Gilbert.

When Robert the Frisian became Count of Flanders, he made Baudouin d'Alost also Seigneur de Waas.

There can be no doubt but that Gilbert de Gant, the Domesday tenant of Folkenham, was identical with Gilbert the younger son of Raoul II, and in this connection it should be noted that Gilbert's son Walter named a younger son Baldwin (Baudouin) who was canon of Bridlington in Yorkshire.

CLIFFORD GENEALOGY

POYNINGS GENEALOGY

HERALDRY OF WORCESTERSHIRE.

PERCY or PIERCY of Worcestershire.

This family, of which the celebrated Dr. Thomas Percy, Bishop of Dromore, was the last male heir (There is, however, a family still existing in the county named Piercy. Of this family was the Rev. Daniel Piercy, rector of Shrawley, 1764, who used for arms the Percy lion, quartering gules, three lucies haurient argent for Lucy, as borne by the Earls and Dukes of Northumberland) is stated to have been descended from John Percy, "who retired from the north to Worcester about 1530 and brought with him his son Thomas, then an infant." This John was supposed by the Bishop of Dromore, "from the concurrence of many peculiar circumstances" to have been identical with John Percy of Newton-by-the-Sea, son of Henry Percy, and grandson of Sir Ralph Percy, a younger brother of Henry 3rd Earl of Northumberland. Dr. Percy printed a short pedigree of his family about the year 1795, in which he inserted that descent which he had previously suggested to Nash; but such descent, though probable, is certainly "not proven." From Thomas, the supposed son of John Percy of Newton, Thomas Piercy, mayor of Worcester in 1662, was lineally descended. John the mayor's son married Elizabeth, daughter of Arthur Lowe, of the Lowe, and was father of Arthur Percy, born 1729, Bishop of Dromore. Dr. Percy married in 1759 Anne Gutteridge (to whom he had addressed the pastoral ballad, "O Nancy, wilt thou go with me?"), but died without surviving male issue on 30th Sept. 1811, "revered (says one of his biographers) by all sects and classes in his diocese, to whom the exercise of every virtue--charity, piety and hospitality--had endeared him during an episcopate of nearly thirty years.---

Or, a lion rampant azure. (Nash, etc.)

Under "Piercie of Worcester," Penn states--"This family do take their derivation from the noble Earls of Northumberland, as witness the coat; for they bear, Or, a lyon rampant azure, which is the same, but their difference is a mullet on a crescent surmounted by another crescent which is a great distance from the first house."

In the light of subsequent researches it appears most likely that "----ard Percy" stood for Edward Percy, born about the same time as Guiscard, and son of Josceline Percy of Newlands, fourth son of the fourth earl.

Crails Romance of the Peerage

His (James Percy) eldest son, Sir Anthony Percy, became Lord Mayor of Dublin in 1699 and was knighted at the close of his term of office. A grandson, Henry Percy of Siskin, co. Wicklow, at one time published a pamphlet, now very rare, in which he reviewed and renewed James Percy's claim to the Earldom. This branch is now supposed to be extinct in the male line. But the claimant's two younger sons also left descendants. One of them, John Percy of Ballintemple, King's co., was granted by Sir William Belham, Ulster King of Arms, the following armorial bearings in evident recognition of Percy's claimed descent from the House of Northumberland:-

Quarterly 1st and 4th, or a lion rampt. az. between 3 trefoils slipped vert;
2nd and 3rd, azure 5 fusils in fesse or between 2 trefoils slipped argent, all within a border gobony gules and argent.

From this John Percy claim descent George Percy of Ballylonan, near Frankford, King's co., and John Percy of Clononeen, Borris-in-Ossory, Queen's co., either of whom may be the male representative of old James Percy the "trunkmaker" and his claims. A Henry Percy also resides at Larkfield, near Athlone, and claims to be a descendant of James Percy.

Waterton of Deeping Waterton, co. Lincoln.

Waterton, or Watertun, is mentioned in Domesday Book as having a Hall and a carucate of land. Together with other lands in the sake of Croule, it became, soon after the Conquest, the property of the Abbey of Selby, and between the years 1159-70, when Gilbert was Abbot of that Monastery, it was called a vil, and given by him, as appears by his charter, to Reiner, the son of Norman de Normantbi, he paying the yearly rent of twelve shillings on the feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Sir Robert Waterton was a Crusader at the battle of Ascalon, 1191, and there is a tradition that he took, with his own hand, three Paynim standards, and that Richard Coeur-de-Lion granted to him and his posterity to bear, as a charge on their shield, over all, three crescents &c.

William Waterton was dead in 1255; his widow Dyonesia, was then living, as appears from an entry on the ROTULI FINIUM, 29 Henry III. He had three sons,

1. Reinar, Lord Waterton, mentioned in the ROT. HUNDRED, 1275. He was ancestor of the great historic House of Waterton of Waterton, of which were two brothers, Sir John Waterton, one of the heroes of Agincourt (with whose dau. and heiress Waterton passed to the Babthorpes of Babthorpe), and Sir Robert, Ambassador to France, temp. Henry V. The senior line is now extinct.
2. Richard, of whose line we treat.

Richard, the brother of Reiner, the Lord of Waterton, was living 1281, in which year he was witness to a charter of his brother. His son and heir,

John Waterton, married Matilda, dau. of John Amyas, and had issue,

John Waterton, married Audrey, dau. and heiress of Jordan Raineville, and had a son and heir,

Richard Waterton, married Constance, the dau. and heiress

Waterton of Deeping Waterton, co. Lincoln

of Sir William Ashenall, and thus became Lord of Walton and Cawthorne jure uxoris. Their son,

Sir Robert Waterton, Knight of the Shire for co. York 13 Henry V, and High Sheriff 1448, married Agnes, dau. of Sir Guy Fairfax, and had issue, (Q.V. Fairfax of Bilbrough, B.L.G. v.1, p 483)

Sir John.

Elizabeth, married Sir Nicholas Wortley, of Wortley.
The son and heir,

Sir John Waterton, married Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Saville, of Thornhill, and had issue, Robert.

Maudie, married Sir Thomas Metham, of Metham.
The son and heir,

Robert Waterton, of Walton, married Mary, dau. of John Langton, of Huddlesstone, near Sherburne, and had issue,

Sir Robert Waterton, of Walton, married Muriel, dau. of Sir Francis Leake, of Sutton, co. Derby, by whom he had issue, Sir Thomas.

Susan, married Nicholas Palmes, of Naburn.

Sir Robert married, 2ndly, Joane, dau. and heir of William Everingham, but by her had no issue. The son and heir,

Sir Thomas Waterton, of Walton, High Sheriff of co York, temp. Queen Mary, one of Her Majesty's Hon. Council of the North, as well as a Justice of the Peace for West Riding, married Joane, dau. of Sir Richard Tempest, Kent, and had issue,

June 12, 1974

Dear Dr. & Mrs. Burlingame.

Enjoyed so much the information & letter you sent.

Am planning my first trip to Europe and it will be fun to visit Scotland and see the castle.

Hope to meet you folks one of these days - who knows.

My dear mom was asking about about the brochure you sent, & only wish she was able to go. Too bad life is so short and one puts plans off and then it is too late. I guess we forget how fast the years go by. Can hardly believe I am 54! Thank goodness for tennis - I play a fair game & usually come in 2 or 3rd in mixed doubles. Keeps the blood circulating!

Love,
Virginia Jensen
